Summary of reasons for decision:

The publication is a computer image file which consists of 16 thumbnail images taken from a video, explicitly depicting a young woman engaged in sexual activity. The Classification Office has considered whether the image file promotes or supports, or tends to promote or support, the exploitation of young persons for sexual purposes in terms of s3(2)(a) of the Films, Videos, and Publications Classification Act 1993, and concluded that it does not. The subject has a youthful appearance; she could be a young person, but could equally be an adult. It is not possible to determine her age with confidence. The image file does however explicitly depict sexual activity. Such material is likely to adversely affect children and teenagers' development, as they are still in the process of forming their attitudes toward sex and developing their understanding of sexual behaviours. It is therefore restricted to adults. While this restriction limits the right to freedom of expression afforded by the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990, it is considered reasonable and demonstrably justifiable in the interest of preventing likely injury to the public good.
